Estonian Actuarial Society 25th Anniversary Conference

As one of the world's most digitally advanced societies, our country is experiencing rapid growth in novel digital businesses and technologies. This includes the widespread adoption of data science, machine learning, and AI across various sectors of the economy. Alongside other European nations, Estonia is also witnessing a continuous increase in life expectancy, leading to new challenges in retirement, pension management, and senior healthcare.

To mark its anniversary, the Estonian Actuarial Society will host a conference addressing these critical issues impacting Estonian actuaries and the insurance industry.

The conference will take place on September 27, 2024, in Tallinn. The conference is organized in conjunction with the semi-annual meetings of the International Actuarial Association that take place in Tallinn between the 26th and 30th of September.

Insurance industry leaders, along with academia and research experts, will debate the current industry topics:

- Challenges in development of the next generation of actuaries amidst the growing adoption of data science in the market
- The risks and opportunities around AI adoption in the insurance industry, and the potential impact of AI-related regulations
- Building a better society for everybody – how could actuaries contribute more to public health, people's financial security and well-being in the era of ageing population
- IFRS17 implementation – How the new reporting standard is impacting corporate management and business steering after the first IFRS17 reporting period? Is the new reporting transparent and comparable enough for the financial stakeholders?

We invite actuaries, insurance industry professionals, insurtech, public sector representatives, and other decision-makers to attend the conference. We are expecting guests and speakers from the Baltic countries, as well as from across Europe and beyond.
